IMMEDIATE RELEASE

FIRST MAJOR CONFERENCE ON LABOR ARBITRATION IN SAN DIEGO

SAN DIEGO, Calif. --San Diego management and labor will meet for the first major conference on labor arbitration in San Diego, October 4, at the University of San Diego. The American Arbitration Association is co-sponsoring the conference with USD.

Joseph A. Sinclitico, Dean of the University's School of Law, said that more than 100 delegates are expected for the one day meeting. Representatives of labor and management will come from San Diego, Los Angeles and Arizona.

Edgar Allen Jones of the National Academy Arbitrators will deliver the keynote address. The main topic of the conference will be "What Labor and Management Expect From Arbitration And An Arbitrator." The company viewpoint will be presented by Josiah L. Neeper and the union side by Jerry J. Williams.

Morris Meyers, general counsel for the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, will close the morning session with a talk "Up For Grabs! Whose Ball Is It - The Board's The Court's Or The Arbitrator's?"

John S. Murphy, vice-president of the American Arbitration Association will discuss "How to Lose An Arbitration Case" in the afternoon.

Highlight of the conference will be a demonstration dispute between labor and management. The mock arbitration case will be "Seniority vs. Ability in Promotion." John Scrivner, regional director of the American Arbitration Association, will act as tribunal administrator. Prominent members of local labor and management will play the part of advocates, witnesses and grievants.

The conference will be held in More Hall, USD School of Law starting at 9:15 a.m.
